WHAT I'VE DONE

Been an effective regional policy officer

As North East Policy Officer, I passed multiple amendments at conference, secured the first Lib Dem working group on regional inequality in decades, and organised joint policy work with neighbouring regions.

Delivered policy training and webinars

I have delivered policy training to and helped develop the policy ideas of over a hundred members. Helping them develop the skills and attention to detail needed to get several of their ideas into party policy passed at conference.

Campaigned right across the region

I have years of experience campaigning across the region and have campaigned in Cambridgeshire, Suffolk, Essex and Hertfordshire in just the last few months. I will use my experience on the doorstep to ensure we are answering the questions voters are asking properly and are a relevant party to those who share our values.

WHAT I'LL DO NEXT

Get us ready to fight mayoral elections

As a party, we have regularly underperformed in mayoral elections relative to council elections. As more mayors pop up across our region, these elections could be either a danger or an opportunity. I will work across the region to help develop policy platforms that give us the best chance of making the most of these elections.

Help you use policy to grow membership.

We need more members who get involved. The more we have, the more we can do and the more elections we can win. I will work with local party executives to help them use policy to bring in more members, especially young members like me.

Keep you informed and involved

I will hold policy webinars before every conference so members are fully prepared and will help them get their ideas on the agenda. As a directly elected member of Federal Policy Committee I am ideally placed to keep members informed and give them every chance to contribute.
